2011

A proposal to join us in supporting StrengthBank® Talk Groups where business volunteers mentor during high school advisories.

Ever had a high school drop out hand provide you a burger?
Mow your lawn? Hire-on to facilitate your deliveries?

Have you every hired a high school graduate who did not know how to get along with people?

Ever driven up to a drive through and received begrudging action rather than customer service?

If you have experiences any of the above, you know the need.
If you have not, you are not paying attention. The need is big and you now have an opportunity to be a part of the solution.

Approximately 20 million teenagers could graduate in the next 3 years and enter the workforce with more than acceptable SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) scores but without acceptable work/life SAT (Service-oriented, Available, Trustworthy) scores. Yet, they are headed for your workforce.
